Choice of Health Care Agent Advance Directive Form

No one can predict when a serious illness or accident might happen. When it does, you might need someone else to speak for you or make medical decisions for you. If you plan now, you can increase the chances that the medical treatment you receive will be the treatment you want.

In Maryland, Virginia, and D.C., you can choose someone to be your "Health Care Agent," which is the same as a "Medical Power of Attorney" or "Health Care Proxy." The health care agent is the person you trust to make medical decisions for you if you do not want to or are unable to make them yourself. These decisions should be based on your personal values and wishes.

It is important to record your choice of health care agent in writing. You may use this form from the Montgomery County Coalition for End of Life Care, legal in Maryland, Virginia, and the District of Columbia as well as many other states, or you can use another form.

What kind of decisions can my health care agent make?

Your agent can:

- Talk with healthcare providers about your condition
- See medical records and approve who else can see them
- Give permission for medical tests, medicines, surgery, or other treatments
- Make decisions about treatments designed to keep you alive if you are near death or not likely to recover
- Choose among options for where you receive care and who your health care providers are
- Agree to donate your organs if you have not decided for yourself
- Sign for you to give permission for any of the above

Whom should I choose to be my health care agent?

You can pick a family member as a health care agent, but you don't have to. Remember, your agent will have the power to make treatment decisions, even if other people close to you might urge a different decision.

Choose a family member or friend who:

- Is at least 18 years old
- Knows you well
- Can be there for you when you need it
- You trust to do what is best for you and is willing to carry out your wishes
- Would be comfortable talking with your healthcare providers and asking them questions if necessary
- Would not be too emotionally upset to carry out your wishes if you became very sick
- Is willing to accept this important role

In case the person who is your first choice is not able to carry out this role when the time comes, you should choose a "backup" agent. You may want to choose a third person for extra security in case neither of your first two choices is available.

What will happen if I do not choose a health care agent?

If you are too sick to make your own medical decisions, and have never written down the name of your choice of a health care agent, your doctors will ask your closest family member to make decisions for you. There are four reasons why this may be a problem:

- 1) The closest family member available at the time might not be the person you would want to make decisions for you.
- 2) Some family members might not be able or willing to make decisions as you would want them to.
- 3) Family members may disagree with one another about the best decisions.
- 4) Family members cannot legally make all of the decisions that may be needed. Some decisions may have to be made by someone appointed by a judge or possibly someone who does not know you at all if you have not named a healthcare agent.

What do I do with this form once I complete it?

- 1. Sign the form in front of two witnesses. Ask two people who meet the requirements listed on page 6.
- 2. Ask the witnesses to sign it too.
- 3. Give a copy to your health care agent and to each of your backup agents.
- 4. Give another copy to your doctor.
- 5. Take a copy with you when you are admitted to a hospital.
- 6. Show it to your family and friends and others who care for you.

*You must sign this form and two witnesses must also sign it before it is official.

What if I change my mind?

You may change your mind at any time, as long as you are competent. To do so, fill out a new form and date and sign it with witnesses. Then make sure everyone you gave the old form to has a copy of the new one.

You are not required to use this form. There are other forms available or you can write your own statement. If you have questions about other forms, please talk them over with the person who gave you this one, your doctor, social worker, friends or family.

Considerations for You and Your Health Care Agent

What are the things you want your agent to know?

Your agent will need to think about conversations you have had, your personality and how you handled other important issues in the past. It is important to think and talk with your agent and your family about such things as:

- The things that are most important to you in your life
- Whether you would rather be at home or in a hospital for the last days or weeks of your life.
- How important it is to you to avoid pain and suffering
- Whether it is more important to you to live longer or avoid prolonged disability or suffering

Write down here the most important thoughts you have about these things to help your agent

- The way you would like to be remembered
- Your religious beliefs
- Your hopes for your family if you are very sick or dying

make good decisions for you. You should also talk about these things with your health care agent, backup agents, and family so that everyone understands your wishes. This can avoid problems in the future.

Are there other people your agent should talk with?
